Contents

SLAVERY AND THE CREATION OF ARKANSAS TERRITORY: A RECONSIDERATION
James J. Gigantino II 231

“A MOCKERY FOR EDUCATION”? LITTLE ROCK’S THOMAS J. RANEY HIGH SCHOOL DURING THE LOST YEAR, 1958-1959
Graeme Cope 248

“A DELICATE MATTER”: THE 1958 SPECIAL EDUCATION COMMITTEE HEARING
Anthony B. Newkirk 274

THE STUTTGART CONFERENCE OF THE ARKANSAS HISTORICAL ASSOCIATION, 2019
Blake Perkins 296

ARKANSAS LISTINGS IN THE NATIONAL REGISTER OF HISTORICAL PLACES
Callie Williams 302

FROM THE ARCHIVES
Todd E. Lewis 312

BOOK REVIEWS.................................................................316

BOOK AND MEDIA NOTES...............................................327

NEWS AND NOTICES......................................................328
BOOK REVIEWS

Jones-Branch and Edwards, Arkansas Women: Their Lives and Times
By Deborah A. Skok ........................................................................................................316

Johnston, Mountain Feds: Arkansas Unionists and the Peace Society
By Matthew M. Stith ........................................................................................................318

Hewitt and Schott, Confederate Generals in the Trans-Mississippi: Essays on America’s Civil War, vol. 3
By Buck T. Foster ........................................................................................................320

Greene, The Invention and Reinvention of Big Bill Broonzy
By Robert W. Fry ........................................................................................................321

By Susan M. Marren ........................................................................................................324